EHR- Electronic Health Records

We at Amas Medical Services strongly feel that patient health management is greatly enhanced by the use of comprehensive Electronic Health Records (EHR) and Patient Management System. There are numerous ways in which EHRs can help us to achieve our goal. Firstly, it allows filtering, organizing, and providing easy access to medical information. As information from patient's previous clinical encounters and tests will be more readily available with electronic than paper records, EHRs will substantially improve clinician's knowledge about the patient. Secondly, EHRs will foster thoughtful assessment by serving as a common platform where clinicians, together with patients, document succinct evaluations, craft thoughtful differential diagnoses and note unanswered questions. Thirdly, EHR system will facilitate the documentation of evolving history and ongoing assessment rather than requiring a medical record to start afresh with each new physician encounter. EHRs follow an evolutionary paradigm, especially for chronic conditions. Our system is built on a single database, ensuring a seamless flow of information from patient scheduling to billing along with interoperability of medical data between physicians, hospitals, diagnostic clinics, pharmacy, blood banks, health insurance companies, educational institutes and patients anywhere in the world. EHR streamlines Patient Management System and enables clinical workflow automation, it also serves as a resource of medical data management that is easy to sort and be analysed by authorised National and International Medical organizations.
